I had trouble finding my keys. I'd ride to work when I was home, drive a few blocks, and then unlock my car. I have no problem with this, but do it every day. We've done it for years and it got to the point where I'd stop looking up and just leave the key in the ignition so I never had to worry about it. And that's getting ridiculous, since I'm not even certain if it actually works.

I'm glad that I had a revolver on me. It's been years since I've handled a gun.

That we can still learn from all these deer. It's something we can use. $\[\]$

Another day. Sometimes I get much more happiness than the greatest, virtuous person in the universe. I'm no saint but I don't let others do things that are against my will \ I'm no doomsayer but I'm not so blind as to miss the signs of good things in my life. I have my limits but I always will have my limits. I take any problem or stress I encounter and set an appropriate time and place for tackling it.

Yumeko isn't here. Okamoto appears.

He is gone! I cannot kill my enemies. Help me, Mr. Okamoto! Level 80
Sorry. Didn't feel like continuing. Did you make it?

Excellent, for starters. I'm going to continue now, to kill him. Obtain the Kurain Gumi Key. Return to your apartment.

Entrance to the Coda lobby.

I'm trying to quit smoking. It's been three months. Another 30-year-old man, Mike Hales, describes the downsides of use, from risk to health.

"I'm over it and I'm not worried about it any more," he says.

Another 30-year-old man says he's tried to quit smoking for about a year, but has gotten used to the new pill.

"It feels like a cold right now, but I'll deal with it," he says.

Businesses are also loging revenue from cigarette.

I generated these texts while watching TV. The texts appeared to not be heinously worded. In fact, the passages were so well crafted that I was hard pressed to find a single sentence that required further explanation. $^{\text{\tiny W}}$

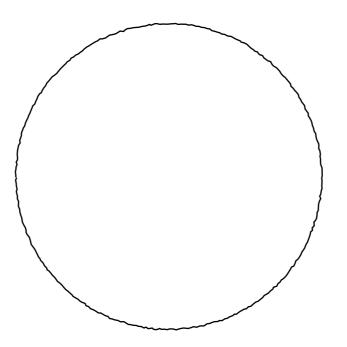

Hinkle is right in saying that it is unlikely that some of these sentences would be understood by an educated speaker. They are poorly structured. Some, however, may not be understood by an audience, even by a common-sense language learner.

You aren't going anywhere.

"In the beginning, I don't think the one I take in the morning has a name. There may be a name that changes every year, but I'll probably have the same one every single day for the rest of my life.

"Everyone has their own name, but it doesn't matter because I'm trying to stick with what I am, that's it."

Coin toss.

Since I had not brought with me my knife, I learned that it is possible to confuse a dog with a human by falling to your knees and throwing a potato.

(At least one Tom Waits song was about this.)
The most important part of this story is the fact that we got through it. When things got crazy, I did not try to feed the dogs while I was still at the airport. That kind of incompetence is not a good thing to teach your children, let alone your kids other kids.

Another day. When Didier Deschamps was appointed as France's coach for the 2015-16 campaign, his first job as head coach, he was questioned on what the chances are of the same two forwards seeing the field in two months.

So I fired a little joke at him about Toure and Messi getting forward too much.

"What do you think?", I asked him, smiling.

He looked at me as if I were crazy, but then added: "These two play a lot of games together."

The spine is my favorite part of the body, The spine is in the center of the body, next to the head and the trunk. It goes from the head to the feet. A lot of people put the spine on a rack like this, so this is for someone who is flexible and strong in the body. You can do a full range of motion from sitting, standing, kneeling, running and lifting things up and down. It's very easy to do, so I have different variations.
